Changing Academic Careers II LECTURE SERIES

We invite you to join our "Changing Academic Careers II" lecture series on (usually) Mondays in June and July 2022. In four sessions, the DZHW Research Cluster hosts online presentations by experts in the field of higher education with special emphasis on academic careers.

Driven by expansion and reforms in the German higher education and science system as well as global crises, academic careers have become increasingly diverse over the last two decades. However, little is known empirically about the consequences of changed conditions for career paths and individuals' occupational success.

Presentations will be held in English, participation is possible with no prior registration. If you are interested in discussing the latest empirical work, follow the corresponding WebEx-link for each session:
